

GUIDANCE AND RESEARCH CENTERS

Guidance and research centers are the institutions that provide cost free services under the Ministry of Education since 1955. Today, they continue their activities in the provinces and districts of Turkey's at 242 different points.

Guidance and research centers conduct research in order to provide more qualified educational services and services in accordance with the needs, and carry out studies in accordance with the results. In general, they plan, organize and monitor guidance services and special education services for all individuals in the area of responsibility.

Guidance and research centers consist of two departments;

- ① Special Education Services
- ② Guidance Services

SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

The special education services department in the guidance and research centers provides services to specify the special education needs of individuals. For this purpose, educational evaluation and diagnosis of individuals is made and it is decided to be directed to appropriate educational environments.

✔ If you think your child is different from their peers in their developmental areas (mental, physical, social-emotional and language development, etc.), you can go to guidance and research centers.

GUIDANCE SERVICES

The guidance services department in the guidance and research centers ensures the coordination of the guidance services for the effective and efficient execution of guidance and psychological guidance services in schools. Individual and group guidance and guidance services are provided to students and parents who apply directly to the guidance services department or are referred from schools. If necessary, assessment and evaluation instruments are applied to individuals. Individual programs are prepared and implemented in educational, vocational and personal-social guidance services areas. Seminars, conferences and workshops are organized for teachers, students and parents. Preference and career guidance services are offered to the applicants.

✔ If you think your child needs support in studying, exam anxiety, anger control, coping with stress, adaptation to school, technology addiction, family and friendship relationships, and so on, you can contact guidance and research centers.
